ALDERMAN PASS AN ORDINANCE

IT FORBIDS CONGREGATING AROUND
WEST MARKET CHURCH.

Boys Must Now Move Elsewhere to Look

Committee Elected—Other Matters of Interest.

The Board of Aldermen met Saturday night in an adjourned session. Those absent from this meeting were Boyd and Joyner.

A committee from the Board of Stewards of West Market Street Methodist church, composed of Messrs. J. A. Odell and E. J. Stafford, appeared before the Board and asked that an ordinance be passed prohibiting the loitering around that church. Alderman Elam offered the following which was adopted:

"Be it ordained by the Board of Aldermen of the City of Greensboro, North Carolina, that it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to loiter around West Market Street church, or make annoying and insulting remarks to any person or persons coming to or from said church. Any person violating this ordinance will be fined five dollars."

Prof. George A. Grimsley and Mr. George S. Sergeant from the committee on the public library, appeared before the Board and asked that the rooms in the City Hall on the third floor be given for the use of the library. They stated that the committee in the canvass of the city had met with such success as to be able to fill all the rooms on that floor. Upon motion of Alderman Love the request was granted.

Alderman Scott offered the following resolution which was adopted: "Resolved, that the Board of Aldermen learns with pleasure of the movement now on foot to establish a public library in our city and believe that it will result in great and lasting good to our community. We commend the public spirit of the library committee in charge of said movement, and those who are so liberally giving of their means for this purpose, and we trust the people of the city will show a liberal and progressive spirit in so an important matter."

A settling committee to settle with the officials of the city was appointed composed of Messrs. Tom Sherwood and B. H. Merrimon.

The application of John Barker to sell liquors by retail at his store on West Market street, was, by the request of the applicant, deferred to the next meeting of the Board for action.

Mr. J. Ed. Albright was granted a plumber license.

R. S. Small made application to sell liquors by retail at 230 South Davie street. Under the rules the application went over two weeks.

A deed to Tate street was filed and accepted.

Alderman Ellington moved that they proceed to the election of a light and water committee, to consist of three men, one to be elected for three years, one for two, and one for one year. Messrs. Sherwood and Ellington were elected tellers. Alderman Ellington nominated W. T. Sergeant for the three year term, B. H. Merrimon for the second, and J. D. Glenn for the one year term. Alderman Hunter moved that the clerk be instructed to cast the vote of the Board for Sergeant for the three year term, which was done, and Sergeant was declared elected. Ballots for the two year term were then taken and resulted in the following vote, Merrimon, 6; Hunter, 3. Merrimon was declared elected. Ballot for the one year term resulted in Glenn, 6; Wharton 3. Glenn was declared elected.

This committee is appointed under the change of charter by the last Legislature.

The building committee was instructed to put in a drain for the city hall lot.

Board adjourned.

NORTHERNER LIES ABOUT THE NEGRO.

DR. PARKHURST GIVES HIS VIEWS

SAYS THAT THE SOUTHERNER HATES
THE NEGRO AND SAYS SO.

But the Northern Man Makes a Flamboyant parade over the Negro—Gov. Chandler Should have Done Like Gov. Aycock Did.

New York, April 28.—Thet Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst preached today at the Madison Square Presbyterian church, on topics connected with his recent trip South. He also made an incidental reply to Gov. Candler, who was reported as having denounced those Northerners who took an interest in educational matters in the South, as a distinct section, but because they were conscious of the unity which makes the North and South members of each other. The conference held at Winston-Salem, in North Carolina, he said, was characterized by the utmost frankness on both sides, and yet from first to last, not an embittering word was spoken. Referring to Governor Candler's criticisms, Dr. Parkhurst said they would not have been made had the Governor of Georgia, as did the Governor of North Carolina, come into direct touch with the personnel of the conference, or for five minutes respired the atmosphere which the conference exhaled.

Referring to the estimation in which the people of the South and those of the North hold the negro, Dr. Parkhurst said: "The Southerner does not like the negro any better than the average Northerner does, but the negro with just about the same amount of Christian consideration—only of the two, the Southern white man has perhaps the advantage, that he does not make quite so flamboyant a pretense of loving the negro as his Northern brother does. The Southern white man dislikes the negro, and owns up to it. The white man in the North dislikes the negro and lies about it."

The preacher said further: "The indiscriminating act by which the negroes had conferred upon them the right to vote was one of those blunders that it is not easy to escape from after it is once committed, but which it would seem we ought to have had Northern statesmanship sufficiently intelligent to prevent."

"The counsel that both the Northern and the Southern friends of the negro are now giving him is to keep quiet upon the whole matter, to keep out of politics; not to talk about the constitution; not to insist upon his right, but to attend industriously to the work of getting himself well ready—which he is not now—for what God and the country and the future may have in store for him."

Dr. Parkhurst closed by the following general reference to present conditions among Southern people:

"The South does not altogether love us, but no one there hates us nearly as much as it would be perfectly natural for them to hate us. They are all glad that slavery is done. They are all glad that they are in the Union. They all glory in the flag, even while in tender bereavement they lay flowers upon the graves of the Confederate dead. We belong to them and they belong to us, and every deed of kindness wisely rendered, every word of sympathetic interest prudently spoken, every new commercial relation and every interchange of hospitalities discreetly arranged will be some contribution to that perfect readjustment of relations which shall make for the enrichment of our common history."

Verg Thompson, colored, was arrested Saturday night for being drunk and disorderly. He was arrested by Officer Merritt, and at first entertained some objections to being locked up.

MRS. HOWARD WRITES LETTER.

LAYS HER CASE BEFORE A JUSTICE
LOVING PUBLIC.

But the Facts in the Case as Stated by the Attorneys Do Not Help in the Attempt to Manufacture Sentiment.

The following paper has been sent to this office, with request to publish, and is addressed to the public. The paper was written with a typewriter and signed by "Mrs. J. L. Howard." It reads as follows:

"I am the wife of John L. Howard, who is now incarcerated in the common jail of Guilford county, under a charge of conspiracy to cheat and defraud. My home is in Chicago. I have made two trips to Greensboro and have endeavored to accomplish everything I could in his behalf. My expenses to and from Chicago and here have been considerable. On my arrival here the first time, I found that my husband Mr. Hawley, and Mr. Daley had employed Major Charles M. Steadman, Mr. G. S. Bradshaw and Mr. W. P. Ragan as their attorneys to appear for them before Mr. J. M. Wolfe, the magistrate who held the preliminary hearing. I found that the officers had taken from them on their arrest a sum of money approximating the sum of $500 and all of their clothing and apparel, and that the defendants had given an order to the attorneys above named for $150 as their fees for the appearance before the magistrate. Those papers are still outstanding. But I wish to say to the people of Guilford county that I have paid out of my own pocket the sum of $350 in cash to Major Steadman and Mr. Bradshaw as attorneys and have their receipts, and have asked them to surrender to me the orders upon the sheriff for the money in his hands taken from my husband and that they refused to surrender me those papers. In consideration of this and other matters they no longer appear for my husband or the other defendants. I am not able to prosecute an action for their recovery. I have done all that I can do in behalf of what I conceive to be just and right. I have spent all my money. I must go home, and I leave my cause and the cause of my husband in the hands of a just and law-abiding people."

"MRS. J. L. HOWARD."

This was so clearly an exparte statement and so calculated—and no doubt intended—to do the gentleman named an injustice that The Telegram did not consider it just to publish it without making the attorneys mentioned aware of its contents, and it therefore asked them for a statement, in reply to which Major Steadman said:

"When these three men were arrested they employed Messrs. Bradshaw, Ragan, and myself to appear for them before the magistrate, and gave an order payable to all three of us for $150 for this service. They also gave an order to me as trustee for $236 to be held for any fees that might thereafter arise and not covered in the $50 each was to receive for appearing before the magistrate. This order was not made payable to me individually but as trustee. We fought the case

SIX PRISONERS GET OUT OF JAIL

UNLOCKED DOOR THIS MORNING

WHILE THE JAILER WAS OUT THEY ALSO WENT OUT

Only One of Them Has Been Recaptured
and in Broad Open Day Light the Gang
Made Good Their Escape—"Dere's Trouble
Up Town."

This morning about nine o'clock considerable excitement was created by the announcement that six prisoners confined in the county jail had escaped.

The escape was made in the following manner:

The cells in which the prisoners are confined stand in a double row, with the doors facing each other, and between them runs a passageway several feet wide. Into this passageway each day the prisoners are permitted to come at stated intervals for exercise. Each end of the passageway is completely barred by iron work, one end containing a door, which opens into yet another passageway which runs around the cages. The only means of exit from this outer passage is through an iron door, but once through it is an easy matter to escape. This outer iron door had been left open this morning by the jailer in order to allow the corridor to be swept out by a negro. While this door was open and the negro sweeping, the jailer went upstairs with Mrs. Hawley, wife of the assayer, and soon afterwards the guard had occasion to also go upstairs. This was the opportunity looked for by the prisoners, who at that time were allowed the privilege of the inner corridor for exercise, and one of them reached his hand through the bars of the door to the box containing the levers that open the doors. This box is locked by a combination similar to the ones used on safes, and the negro, turning the knob, accidentally turned it the right way causing the box to open and allowing him to pull out the lever that opened the corridor door. It was then but the work of a moment to dash through the open door, run through the inner portion of the jail used as a sitting room for the guards, and then they were at liberty.

Jailer Rees, on hearing the noise below, ran down stairs, and seeing what was to pay, drew his pistol and drove the balance of the negroes back into their cells. By the time they were locked up the six who were first out had gotten out of sight, and five of had gotten out of sight.

The names of those who escaped are Will Thomas, in jail for carrying a razor; Bob Johnson, jailed for an assault committed on Summit avenue; Robert Foard, a United States prisoner, sentenced to 18 months in the penitentiary for pilfering mails at Winston; Alf Mabry, fighting; Tom Young, larceny; and Foster Benton, fighting. Tom Young was recaptured by Deputy Sheriff Jones. In speaking of his capture, Young said, "I seed Mr. Jones coming, an' I stopped and waited fer him."

Alf Mabry, one of the fleet footed dusky runners, has for some time been complaining, and has had the attention of a physician, but when the doors were open this morning and the sweet breath of liberty was wafted into his nostrils, his sickness became a thing of the past, and none were fatter of foot than this same sickly coon.

One of the negroes was seen near the Farmer's Warehouse without a hat and when asked the cause of his haste replied, "Dere's trouble up town."

Chief of Police Scott made a search through the woods in the vicinity of the water works, but could find no trace of the fugitives. The United States prisoner, Foard, would have been taken to Nashville tonight. The sheriff is responsible for him.

BUYING OIL LAND IN TEXAS

Kansas City, April 28.—Foreign stockholders of the Port Arthur Land Company have interposed an objection to the sale of 28,000 acres of land at Port Arthur, Texas negotiated last week, according to local officials of that company. Negotiations for the sale of the land, which lies around Port Arthur and between that city and Beaumont, practically were consummated in Kansas City, last week, for a sum said to have been $250 an acre. The prospective buyer was W. J. McKie, of Corsicana, Texas, said to be the legal representative in Texas of the Standard Oil Company. The property is in the hands of E. L. Martin, Arthur E. Stillwell and J. M. Trimble, of this city, former owners of the Kansas City, Pittsburg & Gulf Railway, as trustees. These officials assert that they have full powers to dispose of the property.

Mr. Martin confirmed the sale of an undivided half interest in the land, but said: "Some one seems to have wired some of the foreign stockholders in the company we were about to give away a good thing. They notified us not to deliver the deeds until they had further information on the subject. In the meantime, however, the deeds had been sent to Corsicana, but we telegraphed the bank there to hold them until further notice."

Mr. Stillwell declines to discuss the details of the deal. He says, however, that the result of it will be the centering of the oil industry of Texas at Port Arthur.

TWO MORE OIL GUSHERS IN TEXAS.

Beaumont, Texas, April 28.—News of two more gushers was brought in here today. The first is on what is known as the Gladys City property, owned by the J. M. Guff Company. It is close to the other gushers. The other well is owned by the Texas & Colorado Oil Company. Its importance is because it widens the circle, being the furthest from the original Lucas gusher.

The rumors that parties acting for the Standard Oil Company have purchased the property of the Port Arthur Land Company, was confirmed today. There are 30,000 acres in the tract and the price, according to reports is $750,000.

Baby Killed With Creosote.

Atlanta Constitution.

With his baby lips blistered from the burning creosote poison he had swallowed in childish ignorance, Willie Thomas, the little son of Mrs. Thomas, died in his mother's arms yesterday afternoon thirty minutes after he had taken the fiery, deadly drug.

In a few minutes a happy home at No. 50 Kennedy street had been cast into the deepest gloom. A widow, who only recently beheld the mangled body of a devoted husband brought home from a railroad wreck, was called upon yesterday to see her only child, a bright beautiful boy, snatched from her bosom by death before two summers had kissed the sunshine of his golden hair.

Seizing a vial of creosote which had been used by a member of the family for an aching tooth, Willie Thomas swallowed a few drops of the deadly antiseptic. With a cry of pain he rushed into his mother's arms and there he lay and breathed his young life away, although every effort was made to counteract the poison at three o'clock and at 3:30 its body lay cold in death.

The anguished mother, with the somber mourning garments for a dead husband still casting a shadow over her life, is herself now lying at the point of death. Convulsion after convulsion has thrown her into violent delirium, and it is feared that she may soon meet husband and child who have been taken away from her by such tragic deaths.

A Perfectly Model Man

By Ella Higginson.

SHE lay there alone in the dark. It was near midnight. When the lights had been dimmed throughout the house, and stillness had settled upon everything, he had arisen in unbearable suffering and gone softly down stairs. It was her last night in the house, whose every chair and curtain seemed to thrill as he passed, and he must be nearer the room in which she lay asleep—forevermore asleep.

He threw himself upon a couch in the hall. He lay on his back with one arm thrown over his eyes. He was trembling like an old, old man—or like a dog that lies out in the cold and wet and hears a fire crackling within the house.

A fine rain was beating ceaselessly against the windows and doors. The climbing rose against the side of the house moved its arms as the wind bore down upon it. It had not been a month since she had asked him to tack it more securely, as the autumn winds were coming on; and he had replied that he would do it some other time—he had an engagement now. The engagement had been to play billiards with a man for whom he cared nothing. She was standing on the steps in her pale blue gown, with tacks and bits of leather and a long-handled hammer in her hands. He recalled the cloud of disappointment that had drifted suddenly across her face. The following morning he had observed that the vine was tacked in place, and he had not thought of it again. Until now! Why on earth should he think of it now? Was not his anguish deep enough? Why could he not remember rather the things he had done to make her happy—the pleasant home he had given her, the jewels, the pretty gowns, the carriage—ah, the carriage! His heart opened and closed suddenly. The carriage in which she seemed to take no pleasure because he never went driving with her! He had told her that he was too busy! Good God! his heart cried out roughly, why need he have lied to her? She must have known then that he was lying to her; surely she knew it now.

Presently he became aware that two women had entered an adjoining room. They drew their chairs to the fire and sewed and talked. The door leading into the dark hall was open. It seemed good to him—less lonely—that they should be there. They spoke in unhusked voices, as if to make it more cheerful for themselves.

"Well," said one, after they had talked of other things, biting a thread and rolling the end between her thumb and forefinger, "she had everything that heart could want. He's a good man, an' he was mighty good to her." She bent toward the lamp to thread her needle. Her eyelids flickered close together. Tiny wrinkles ran around her eyes.

The other woman was silent. "Yes," continued Mrs. Gregg, beginning to sew, "there ain't many men as good to a woman's he was. She had a nice home, all furnished up nice—w'y, that sideboard alone cost $200 if it cost a cent! She had a cook an' a second girl—I never could see why they call 'em second girls—an' a kerriage, an' fine jewelry, an' dresses. She had a plenty o' spending money besides."

The other woman was silent. Why did she not speak. He lifted his head and looked at her. She rocked back and forth as she sewed. Her eyes were on her work. He knew her well—a poor neighbor to whom his wife had given much sewing and of whom she had always been fond. Only a few hours before her death she had spoken to him of this woman. "You'll do something for her sometimes, dearest," she had whispered, even after speech was a difficult thing for her. "Do little things for her and the children—and do them delicately—so you will not hurt her—"

She had sunk back in his arms, exhausted, and finished the sentence with a smile.

"Look at her front door," went on Mrs. Gregg. "She wanted a fine one, an' she got it. She got every blessed thing she took a notion for, from a burglar-proof closet for her silverware to a Poppa Gonteer rosebush. You got that seam done, Mis' Medcalf?"

Mrs. Medcalf held up the seam to show that it lacked several inches of being finished.

"Oh, you'll soon have it done. It's a pity she ain't got any children. He'll be so much more lonesome, a-comin' home at night an' not findin' anybody here."

Then of a sudden the other woman spoke: "I reckon he won't be any lonesomer'n she's been all these years, a-settin' here alone, night after night, till 11 o'clock."

No knife ever sent a more sickening pain through a heart than those words sent through the heart of the man who lay there in the dark and heard.

"Hum—er—hum," said Mrs. Gregg. "I expect it did get kind of lonesome for her. He—he—that is, I guess he did have to stay downtown most of the time. But he didn't have any bad habits—didn't drink or gamble or look at other women. He was a perfectly model husband."

There was no reply to this, and presently Mrs. Gregg continued: "I never'd thought she'd up and utter a word of complaint agen such a husband."

"She never did," said Mrs. Medcalf. "Never 'n her life, so far's I know. She worshiped the land he walked on. You could see that with ha'f an eye. But she led a mighty lonesome life, model husband or no model husband. He didn't have any bad habits. I know that. He just simply wa'n't domestic. He'd rather set down town an' play some fool game or other than to set at home an' read or play cards with his wife. It ain't no sin, an' I ain't sayin' it is; an' when a woman has that kind of a husband the whole neighborhood's ready to scream out: 'My—O! What does gettin' lonesome amount too? She ain't got any call fer complaint, 's I can see. She'd best be thankin' her stars she ain't got a husband that comes home drunk an' abuses her, or gambles everything he earns away in some old saloon or other!' An' I ain't the one to be claimin' they ain't right, an' she wa'n't the one to complain about anything. But what I see with my own eyes I guess I know. One night she come over to our house for somethin', an' when she comes in—well, if I do say it myself, our little settin'-room did look bright an' cheerful, even if we ain't got much in it. He always builds up a big fire in the fireplace in winter, an' pops a big pan o' corn an' gets up some apples from the cellar, an' then sets down an' reads an' talks while I sew. An' we was settin' there that night when she comes in with a blue dress on an' a black lace scarf over her head, an' cries out: 'Oh, how cozy you are! Why, is your husband at home evenin's?' An' she had the wishest eyes I ever looked into."

"Yes," I says real quick, for I didn't want to hurt her feelin's, 'he works so hard all day he don't feel much like goin' out nights."

"Why, he isn't home every night, is he?" she cries out.

"Yes, I be," says he, before I could speak. "W'y, ain't your husband?"

"No," she says, an' she walked over an' stood lookin' down into the fire; an' then she says, very slow: 'I'd be the happiest woman on earth if he was.'

"Well," says he, lookin' at her close, 'he's home sometimes in the evenin', ain't he?"

"Don't you like popcorn?" cries I, jumpin' up quick, for I knew he never was; an' sure enough, her face was as red as fire—an' if there wa'n't tears in her eyes I don't know tears when I see 'em!"

"He was my idee of a perfectly model husband," said Mrs. Gregg, sternly. "I don't see how anybody can find it in their heart to utter a word agen him."

"I ain't a-utterin' a word agen him, Mis' Gregg. I'm just tellin' you that she was a turrible lonesome woman, even if he did give her everything heart could ask. That time after her baby died he stayed home with her every evenin'—he didn't go downtown a-once, not a-once—"

"You got that seam most finished?" demanded Mrs. Gregg, in a tone of extreme irritation. "After you get it all finished we'll go out in the breakfast room an' get somethin' to eat. There's a nice lunch all laid out on the table. We'll make some tea on the gas stove."

"But it didn't last long," went on Mrs. Medcalf, unmoved. "In less'n two weeks he had to run downtown just for a minute—"

"You like tea or coffee best, Mis' Medcalf? We can boil one as easy's the other."

"Tea. An' his minutes kep' gettin' longer and longer, an' in less'n two weeks more—"

"I've got my seam all done, Mis' Medcalf. Ca-ha-ca-ha-ha," coughed Mrs. Gregg. "There, I'm ketchin' cold."

"In two weeks more he was a-stayin' out just as late as ever. An' then it seemed as if she just couldn't stay at home alone evenin's—"

Mrs. Gregg arose suddenly, scraping her chair back with a rasping sound. She went to the sideboard, ca-ha-ca-ha-ha-ha-ha as she went. She came back bearing a heavy solid silver cake-tray in both hands. "Heft that," she said, sternly. "Just heft it."

Mrs. Medcalf hefted it. "Unh-hunn—solid," she said, briefly, unimpressed. "So she took to comin' over to my house to set a little while, with her white face and black dress, lookin' as sad."

She paused and bent sideways to pick up her thimble, which had fallen. But Mrs. Gregg did not speak. She set the cake-tray in its place on the $200 sideboard. She brushed some imaginary dust off the embroidered cover with her hand. He, lying in the dark hall, observed her movements with that unconscious interest in trivial things which takes hold of one powerfully in great moments. She shook out the folds of her white apron, and stood for a second irresolute. Then she returned slowly to her chair and sat down with a look of utter defeat. Mrs. Medcalf continued her story with irritating complacency. Mrs. Gregg turned her face entirely away, and leaning her head against the back of the chair, closed her eyes and sat motionless, as if asleep. Mrs. Medcalf had her innings, and she made the most of them.

"Specially on windy nights, when doors rattled an' latches lifted up, she couldn't stay alone. So she used to come over and set there till bedtime, an' then go home in the rain an' dark, an' go into that lonesome house all alone—an' him down town without a habit!"

Mrs. Medcalf had finished; she arose, triumphant. She folded her work neatly and leisurely and laid it on the table. Then she pushed her needle into it and laid her thimble on top of it—balancing it so it would not roll off. "He was a perfectly model husband," she said then, imitating Mrs. Gregg's tone; "but I reckon she'll never be any lonesomer up in that windy graveyard than she was here. Shall we go out now an' get somethin' to eat?"

She went slowly out of the room. Mrs. Gregg arose with her lips set together grimly, and followed.

And he—he lay there alone in the dark!—Woman's Home Companion.

A Chinese Wedding.

When a marriage takes place in China the wedding party enter the temple and light a quantity of fireworks, including a number of crackers. This is supposed to wake the "Great Joss" from his sleep. The priest repeats the service at express speed, the bride and bridegroom take two little glasses of wine and are then declared man and wife.

GLORIOUS NEWS

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help; but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved,—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion, builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by C. E. Holton, druggist. Guarantied.

HERE TO STAY.

Dr. W. G. Browne, the well known practical and scientific optician, who on professional visits here during the past 16 years, has given entire satisfaction to his numerous patrons, has fitted up an optical parlor in the Wright building opposite the court house, where he will be found during business hours, from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. and at any time at Hotel Clegg to attend special calls.

Eyes carefully examined and fitted with up-to-date spectacles and eye glasses. All work guaranteed.

CAUGHT A DREADFUL COLD.

Marion Kooke, manager for T. M. Thompson, a large importer of fine millinery at 1658 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, says: "During the late severe weather I caught a dreadful cold which kept me awake at night and made me unfit to attend my work during the day. One of my milliners was taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a severe cold at that time, which seemed to relieve her so quickly that I bought some for myself. It acted like magic and I began to improve at once. I am now entirely well and feel very pleasant."

A TESTIMONIAL FROM OLD ENGLAND.

"I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the best in the world for bronchitis," says Mrs. William Savory, of Warrington, England. "It has saved my wife's life, she having been a martyr to bronchitis for over six years, being most of the time confined to her bed. She is now quite well." Sent by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM. QUICK RELIEF FROM PAIN.

All who use Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism are delighted with the quick relief from pain which it affords. When speaking of this Mr. D. N. Sinks, of Troy, Ohio, says: "Some time ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism in my arm and shoulder. I tried numerous remedies but got no relief until I was recommended by Messrs. Geo. F. Parson & Co., druggists of this place, to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. They recommended it so highly that I thought I'd better try it. I was soon relieved of all pain. I have since recommended this liniment to many of my friends, who agree with me that it is the best remedy for muscular rheumatism in the market." or sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

MONDAY, APRIL 29.

FINDING OUT THE TRUTH.

Governor Candler has denied that he said we didn't need the dam Yankees coming down here, and we are exceedingly glad that he has denied it. Governor Aycock expressed the real sentiment of the thoughtful Southern people when he said that we welcomed the Northern people if they chose to help us, but that we desired more to have our Northern friends understand us than to help us. This visit South of a number of influential, earnest and honest men, will do more to spread a correct understanding of the South in the North than any one thing that has happened. Already the good work has begun. From the very field, before even getting back home, Dr. Lyman Abbott writes of the trip to his weekly magazine, The Outlook. In concluding his article he thus sums up:

The Southerner has less prejudice against the negro and more interest in his welfare than the Northerner has; he desires the negroes' education, but believes that, whatever it may become in the future, it should now be industrial rather than literary; the South has spent on the negroes' education between three and four times as much in school taxes as the North has spent in contributions; the work of the North among the negroes should be carried on in fellowship with the Southern whites, not in antagonism to them; to attempt to force either political or social equality is to inflict incalculable injury on the negro and on the nation. In a word, the Northerner should recognize the fact that the Southern white man now wishes to befriend the negro, but the negro should recognize the fact that he has yet to earn the Southern white man's respect.

This is the most cordial and unguarded statement that we have ever seen made by so influential a Northern man. Dr. Abbott undoubtedly nearly understood the situation before he came South and only had his ideas confirmed.

The people of this vicinity should not forget that on the 10th of May they are to have with them North Carolina's most distinguished citizen, Hon. Matt W. Ransom, soldier, senator, diplomat, distinguished as each.

HAPPENINGS ON THE 10TH.

The Exercises of the Morning Will be Followed by Races in the Afternoon.

The Memorial Day exercises on the tenth will attract a large number of people, especially since General Ransom, North Carolina's most distinguished citizen, will deliver the address.

Beside the exercises in the morning the racing of the afternoon promised by the Fair Association, will be amply provided for. Secretary Petty has entered the following horses:

Trip Gentry, Mattie Holt, Doug Thomas, Lacy Phillips, Kate Campbell, Minnie Tucker, Betsy Tussey, Poan of Arc, Pacer and Dora B. There will be three races—trot, pace and pace and trot.

Excursion rates will be in force May 9th and 10th from Charlotte, Danville, Wilkesboro, Sanford, Mt. Airy, and Raleigh, including branches and intermediate points.

Other horses are to be entered and Mr. Petty expects at least thirty here for the races.

Special trains will be run from here to the fair grounds during the afternoon.

The News From High Point.

Correspondence of The Telegram.

High Point, April 27.—The High Point minstrels held the boards at Clarendon Hall last evening and great was the crowd and especially the show.

There was not a dull moment during the entire program and the audience was captivated from start to finish and was kept in good humor despite the oppression of heat caused by the packed house. Each actor proved himself a star in his line and surpassed the expectations of all. The little son of Lawyer Roberson represented the plaintiff, E. D. Steele, Esq., the defendant, and J. M. Sechrest was presiding magistrate. The treat was quite interesting and several hours were consumed in giving testimony and listening to the arguments of counsel. The decision of the court was that the young man by reimbursed the remaining twenty-five dollars to be appropriated for benefits received as it was supposed he had received the worth of his money in lessons. The defendant was taxed with the cost.

Mr. Wm. Tate deserves especial mention as also does the singing of Mr. Craigen and Mr. Griffith. The latter is from Kernersville and took a leading part in the quartettes.

"Wusser" Parker took the cake as the best negro of them all. The jokes were all original and most of them side splitters. The receipts amounted to about seventy-five dollars. The net profits goes to the poor of the town.

About two weeks ago there came a man here from Spray, this state, to take a special course in the Hamner School of Learning and Healing, and yesterday this individual instituted suit against said college for misrepresentation, to recover $50 in money which had been paid the manager on entering. It seems that the young man had a desire to study hypnotism and this including astronomy and massage, what completed the course which he was to pursue this summer. On reaching here he made his first payment—fifty dollars—and later on was to make other payments until the price of the course was paid, which was $200. Becoming dissatisfied he did not find things as he anticipated—he asked for a return of part of his money, which was not given. He then secured the services of a lawyer and instituted suit against the institution.

The Best Man For Mayor.

We are firm in our belief that we are sadly in need of a practical business man as mayor at this particular period. And we do not hesitate to say that Col. W. H. Osborn is the most competent man in Greensboro for that important position. He has been eminently successful in the conduct of his own affairs as well as the affairs of the State penitentiary. He was appointed to the Executive Board of that institution when it was losing the State thousands of dollars annually and when he left there a year later it was a source of revenue to the State.

A man that has proven his executive and financial ability so fully, is good enough for our mayor and we will take him every time and be thankful.

Let every good citizen that is for the growth and progress of Greensboro come out to the primaries and vote for Col. W. H. Osborn for mayor.

If Agoncillo and other chiefs have actually accepted American superiority, he only did so temporarily, in Agoncillo's opinion, as the quickest way of securing absolute independence.

Colored Services.

Yesterday was a big day with the colored people of Greensboro, being the Twentieth anniversary of the True Reformers. The annual sermon was preached by the Rev. T. D. Atkins, pastor of Smith Baptist church, (colored). His effort was a masterly one. They were all pleased with the sermon delivered.

WOMEN RUNNING STORES.

The Latter Day System of Sending Bonnets "on Approval" is Destructive.

The "returners" is the title applied to a large and growing number of women who deal with the department and other retail stores who do business on credit. So great has become the feminine army deserving the new appellation that store managers are considering the desirability of making up a "black list" for mutual protection, says the Chicago Chronicle.

"The women are having too much fun at our expense," said a State street man the other day. "We would give a big price for a remedy that would save us without hurting the feelings or costing us the patronage of the madams and misses who seem to think we have invited them to dabble promiscuously in our stocks."

The custom objected to is that by which goods may be taken home "on approval." The scheme operated well at first, but soon women noticed that there was no bar to ordering in quantities far beyond needs or intention of buying. It is quite the thing nowadays for a matron of good financial standing who wishes, say, a new bonnet, to spend the day in "shopping" at down-town millinery emporiums. From each of a dozen she ordered a choice piece of headgear sent up "on approval," and when her husband comes home at night she dons them each in turn and tries to obtain his endorsement of the most expensive. Failing that, she works "down grade" until he throws up both hands. Or perhaps she has a similar "trying-on bee" with her female friends for critics.

In any event, 11 of the 12 bonnets are sent back the next day, without any cash to pay the storekeeper for the wear and tear incidental to the trip his pet confections have taken—"on approval." After a few excursions of this nature he is obliged to retire the bonnet from exhibition and charge its cost to profit and loss.

"If these 'returners' don't have more pity they'll send me to Kankakee," wailed a sufferer. "I'd go back to the 'cash down' system, but that would mean prompt loss of my trade to my rivals. Oh, for a Moses!"

A Precautionary Law in Vermont.

The Vermont custom of not hanging a convicted murderer until two years after the passing of the death sentence upon him is founded on the assumption that any possible doubt as to his guilt will be removed in that time, and all danger of putting an innocent man to death is thus eliminated.

Mr. C. W. Battie has purchased a lot from Mr. E. L. Piper adjoining the property of the latter on Schenck street, and will shortly begin the erection thereon of a modern, up-to-date house.

Mrs. Howard, "the miner's wife," left Greensboro at noon yesterday. Another woman who says she is the wife of Hawley, "the assayer," is now on the scene, having arrived yesterday from San Francisco. She has been visiting the men at the jail.

To Take Prisoners Jail.

Messrs T. E. McRay and J. M. Bailey, of Marshal Millikan's office, will leave tonight for Nashville, Tenn., taking with them the three prisoners, convicted at the last term of the Federal Court for counterfeiting at High Point, to the penitentiary at Nashville. The names of the prisoners are, William Roach, E. F. Gurley, and Jas. Spencer. The negro, Foard, who escaped from jail today, was also to have accompanied the party.

A Confederate Entertainment.

Prof. Broadhurst and Miss Applewhite, of the Lindsay street Graded School, entertained one grade of the High School Friday night at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Whitsett. Killed His Wife's Brother.

Durham Herald.
News has reached Durham of a murder that was committed in Granville county, near Creedmoor, a few nights ago. The murderer was a half brother of the man slain.

The parties to this horrible affair were negroes. The name of the murderer is Walter Garner and the one killed was William Garner.

From the meagre particulars of the affair it seems that there had been bad blood between the brothers for some time, caused by some domestic affairs. At the time of the killing William Garner was at or near the home of the murderer. Walter Garner was suspicious and jealous of the attention that William had been paying to his wife and on the night of the murder the two men had some words which terminated in Walter taking a gun and killing his brother outright.

After the killing the murderer went to a neighbor and borrowed a horse and wagon carried the dead body of his brother to his home some distance away. Since then nothing has been heard from the murderer.

Deputy Sheriff Flemming, of the county named, was in the city yesterday and he said that the authorities of the county had made every effort to locate the murderer, but without avail. He said that both men bore very unsavory reputations.

Of Vast Benefit.

Henderson Gold Leaf.
The Greensboro Telegram was issued in sixteen-page form Saturday and was devoted to an exploitation of the business and commercial life, industries and resources of that live, progressive city. It was creditable alike to the publishers and the interests it represented, the importance of which was most admirably illustrated. A number of pictures of men and buildings, illuminated its pages while the subject matter was of such character as must make it of vast benefit in advertising Greensboro and Guilford county.

Time, Give Us Time.

Charlotte Observer.
Now that there is a satisfactorily working wireless telegraphy outfit in North Carolina located at Hatteras, our esteemed contemporary, The Concord Standard, is to be congratulated on the fact. The Standard is the organ of wireless telegraphy and in securing the same for North Carolina proves itself more successful than The Greensboro Telegram, the organ of perpetual motion or than the Observer, the organ of the flying machine. We never expect to hear of The Telegram's doing anything with its absurd, impracticable schemes, but we assure our Concord contemporary that North Carolina will yet come to taw with the aerial locomobile.

Enough.

Graham Tribune.
The Greensboro Telegram got out a very creditable edition last Saturday, giving in detail all about the Gate City. It was handsome, attractive and nice; what more can we say?

"I had piles so bad I could get no rest nor find a cure until I tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. After using it once, I forgot I ever had anything like piles."—E. C. Bolce, Somers Point, N. Y. Look out for imitations. Be sure you ask for DeWitt's. Howard Gardner.

Col. Osborn's Good Record.

To the Editor of The Telegram:
Please publish the following extract from the Greensboro Evening Telegram, October 21st, 1899. It will tend to throw some light upon the capacity and qualifications of at least one of the candidates now before us for mayor. The prediction made at the latter part of the article was more than fully realized before Col Osborn reigned:
FIRST WARD.

"When Col. W. H. Osborn was chosen a director of the penitentiary last winter his friends in Greensboro knew no mistake had been made. The Telegram made the statement at the time that if the penitentiary could be placed exclusively in the hands of such men as Col. Osborn it would be made to pay its own way. How about the result even in this short time?
"Col. Bill Day was made superintendent but the work has been largely turned over to Col. Osborn. A report from the penitentiary just made public shows that some great things have already been achieved and that he is the greatest manager in the world.

"Without attempting to report in detail we will mention a few things. He found there a contract made by the former management that was losing the State money. He changed it and put it on a basis that will save the State $45 per day for ten years.

"The products of the State farms were being wasted and being disposed of in a manner that did not pay the cost of production. Take shucks and cotton for instance and see what Col. Osborn has done. He got together a lot of crippled inmates of the penitentiary, those who could not get about and do heavy work, set them down to tearing up shucks and hacking or shredding them; and the cotton and shucks are now bringing a paying price in the shape of substantial mattresses which find ready sale.

"Some of the farm superintendents wanted forty or fifty mules purchased. Col Osborn saw at a glance that there were mules enough, that all that was lacking was a proper distribution of them among the farms. These and many other acts by which money has been saved have come to light. Some of them look simple enough, but they speak loudly for the honesty and integrity of the man as well as his business sagacity.

"Such positions are too often filled by men who do not regard the public interest as demanding the same close care and attention as their own private interest. Col. Osborn is an exception and has proven it.

"And he is a Greensboro man. He should be made superintendent of the penitentiary and given full swing. If this should be done we'll venture another prediction and that is that in two years the penitentiary will be a source of revenue to the State instead of an expense."

The Wicked Flee When No Man Pursueth.

Yesterday afternoon Deputy Sheriff Weatherly rode out into the country, and was returning home through the pines near Hycumuga Mill when his meditations were disturbed by a sound of scurrying, and on looking around, he beheld a number of negroes running as if their life depended upon their speed. They had been gambling and thought Mr. Weatherly was after them, while he, on his part, had not thought of the possibility of anyone being in the woods, and would not have seen them at all had they kept quiet.

Could Fill the Bill.

Roxboro Courier.
The Greensboro Telegram of Saturday contained twenty four pages, and showed Greensboro as a commercial center in no small way. The growth of this city has been wonderful and we think it is yet in its infancy. The fact is, with such a city backing such a paper we wonder at either being content with an evening edition. Surely Greensboro could support a live morning daily, and we know Bro. Beasley and The Telegram could fill the bill.

RED IN THE BLOOD

is the sign of life, of vital force, of the force that life has, of the force that life is.

When the red is lacking, life is weak, the spirits are weak, the body is weak.

Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil puts red in the blood and life in the body.

It's the food you can turn into muscle and bone and nerve. It gives you the mastery over your usual food—you want that. What is life worth if you've got to keep dosing yourself as an invalid?

Red in the blood! get red in the blood!

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

A NIGHT OF TERROR.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she could not live till morning" writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night. "All thought that she must soon die from pneumonia, but she begged for Dr. Kings New Discovery, saying that it had more than once saved her life, and had cured her of consumption. After three doses she slept easily all night, and its further use completely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. Only 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free at C. E. Holton's drug store.

VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS

Are grand, but skin eruptions rob life of joy. Bucklen's Arnica Salve, cures them; old running and fever sores, ulcers, boils, felons, corns, warts, cuts, bruises, burns, scalds, chapped hands, chilblains. Best pile cure on earth. Drives out pains and aches. Only 25 cents a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by C. E. Holton, druggist.

weakens the body and degrades the mind. It saps the nervous strength that is the source of all health, and perverts the functions of every organ. Because of its stubborn nature, it is often called incurable. This is not true. There is one medicine that never fails to check the nervous spasms and give new strength to the entire system.

"My little girl had epilepsy so bad that in one day she suffered seventy-one fits. The doctors gave her up to die, but I began giving her Dr. Miles' Nervine and now she is perfectly well. It took five bottles to effect a cure."
Mrs. ADIE LEWALLEN,

I said $250 cash, which would also include my fee of $50 before the magistrate, for which the order had been given. She paid it in cash, made the same contract with Mr. Bradshaw and paid him $100 in cash. When she discharged us from the case about ten days ago, application was made to me for the orders. I refused to surrender them because it was an attempt to cheat Mr. Ragan and Mr. Bradshaw out of their fees, Mr. Bradshaw having received only $100, and Mr. Ragan not a cent. I shall hold the orders till they are paid. I am glad to be rid of the case, and $500 would have been a reasonable fee for the work I have done. To my certain knowledge the woman had $800 after she paid us, and I don't know how much more."

Bringing Back

The Telegram has received many compliments upon its extra edition of the 20th, in which Greensboro was shown to so great an advantage. But the idea in the getting up of the paper was to show people of other sections what we are doing and to let them see it to be to their advantage to come here. In this effort the special edition is doing good, as this letter just received will show:

"The Greensboro Telegram:
Gentlemen:—Please send me a copy of the extra edition of your paper. I am thinking of locating in your city and want to get some more information.
Yours respectfully,
Yours respectfully,"

"Fairmont, O."

Forbis for Mayor.

The City of Greensboro at this time needs a man who will give the management of affairs his undivided attention and who will energetically push its interest both at home and abroad. If this policy is pursued I believe Greensboro will step forward for the next two years more rapidly than in any two years of its past history.

I believe Mr. Forbis would faithfully and carefully look to the welfare of the city and its citizens and give his whole time to the management of its affairs. Therefore I say let's nominate Forbis.

"ATTENTION."

To Deliver Commencement Sermon.

Rev. Dr. Robert W. Smith, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, will deliver the commencement sermon at the Commencement of the Presbyterian College in Charlotte, May 19th. The Observer says: "Rev. Dr. Smith is a son of the noted Rev. Jacob Henry Smith. He belongs to a really talented family. One brother, Dr. Louis Smith is a professor at Davidson College; another is a pastor at Columbia, S. C., and a third, a professor at the University of Louisiana."

The regular meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Barnabas parish will be held at the Rectory Wednesday at five o'clock.

IS THIS YOUR CASE.

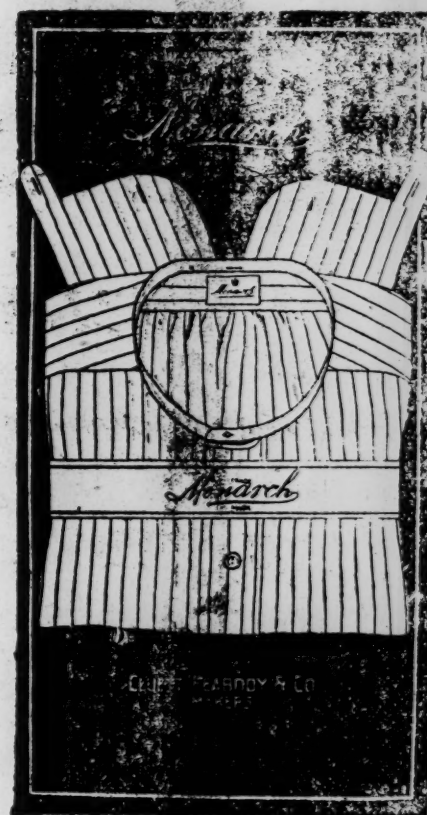

There was an old woman, so I've heard tell,
Who ever was singing, but never sang well,
From earliest dawn till the close of the day,
She sang, "Over the hills and far away."
Her daughter, the Piano was eager to learn,
But never succeeded, through no fault of 'hern,
Scales and studies she practised night, morning and noon,
But the plagued taked thing was so much out of tune
That the neighbors—they kicked and they vowed they would ruin it
Unless she got RUSSELL to come in and tune it.
